WORKSHOPS OVERVIEW

CONCURRENT WORKSHOP A

9.45am – 12.00pm and 12.45pm – 3.00pm

“It’s Not You, It’s Me” – A Guide to Communication Styles

Presenter: Stewart Gillies, Red Sky

Leadership and Communication Consultant – emotional intelligence, communication skills and influence.

Workshop Overview

Ever wonder why some people are easier to work with than others? How you click with some clients, but others are just hard work? Well, in most cases it’s usually just a difference in communication styles. In this fun, fast-moving and interactive session, we explore the four primary communication styles. You’ll find out which one you are and you’ll start to learn what it takes to build relationships with a wide range of personalities. Strap yourselves in. Who knows where you’re going to land?

Session Outcomes

- Find out what communication style you have and why it’s relevant in your day-to-day life.
- Learn about communication styles and how you can go about building relationships with a wide range of people.
- Learn about your inherent strengths and gaps and how you can get better results through collaboration.
- Understand where conflict can often arise and how best to manage yourself in stressful situations.

CONCURRENT WORKSHOP B

9.45am – 12.00pm and 12.45pm – 3.00pm

Reputation is Everything and Everywhere

Presenter: Natalie Kent BBus MBA ALGFP CDec Cert IV TAE Cert IV WHS

Natalie is an accredited trainer/assessor, course designer and consultant with extensive experience in local government.

Workshop Overview

The definition of reputation is the belief or opinion held by someone about you. Your reputation is determined in another’s mind and reflects the decisions they make on your credibility, integrity and ethics.

Good reputations are hard fought and easily lost. A poor reputation is an easy label and very difficult to cast off.

This workshop focuses on the way people make decisions about your reputation, where they get the information to make those decisions and how to avoid pitfalls in the political game that may sway judgment on your reputation.

KEY PRESENTERS

LOUISE DUDLEY

Louise Dudley Chief Executive Officer, Queensland Urban Utilities

Louise was appointed Chief Executive Officer of Queensland Urban Utilities on 1 July 2012, having been part of the organisation since it was
